

North Carolina Farm Bureau Insurance Continues Partnership with NCISAA and Introduces Community Champions Program

New recognition initiative highlights leadership, service, and community impact.

RALEIGH, N.C. – North Carolina Farm Bureau Insurance is proud to announce the continuation of its long-standing partnership with the North Carolina Independent Schools Athletic Association (NCISAA), highlighted by the launch of Community Champions, a new recognition program presented by NC Farm Bureau Insurance.

Community Champions will recognize individuals or teams affiliated with NCISAA member schools who demonstrate leadership, service, and positive impact within their school or local community. Eligible honorees may include students, student-athletes, coaches, faculty, staff, parents, or teams affiliated with an NCISAA member school.

The Community Champions program will roll out during the Spring 2026 season, with recognitions continuing across multiple athletic seasons through December 2027. Three Community Champions will be recognized annually, one per athletic season.

Recognition will take place in conjunction with NCISAA championship events when appropriate, or at other NCISAA athletic events aligned with the honoree's sport, season, or role. The goal of the program is to deliver meaningful, in-person recognition moments that celebrate the contributions of individuals and teams within the NCISAA community.

Honorees will receive a public address announcement and on-field or courtside recognition when applicable, with honoree stories shared through NCISAA championship coverage and association communications.

The continued partnership between NC Farm Bureau Insurance and NCISAA reflects a shared commitment to leadership, integrity, and community pride across independent school athletics.

Nominations for the Community Champions program will open during the Spring 2026 season, with additional nomination windows aligned with future athletic seasons.
